What Do You Believe?

Name: _____

Date: _____

The allure of success, fame, and fortune can be a powerful pull. One or all of those things is often what draws new actors to begin this journey in the first place. Unfortunately, there are plenty of stories from bright eyed, hopeful actors of days gone by in which they compromised something they held to be important because the temptation of realizing their dream was too great. Don't make the same mistake. Take the time right now to determine what you will and won't do, where your "line" is, and who in your life can hold you to those convictions. You won't regret it!

*"You have to think these things through before the audition comes in. Before the job is offered to you."
- Abbie*
